This week the children had fun celebrating World Gratitude Day by thinking carefully about the different things they are grateful for and including their thoughts in our class gratitude jar.

To reinforce this, I would like you to take part in a gratitude nature hunt. Please use the scavenger hunt grid your child has brought home to support this. In addition, please add some details onto the recording sheet of some of the wonderful things your child finds/ is grateful for in nature! If you add photos via Evidence Me I will print and attach them to the recording sheet.

I would like the children to bring their finished work back into school to share with the rest of the class.

Please make comments about your child's engagement with the activity via Evidence Me and include photographs.

Many thanks and have a great weekend!
Miss Alexander
