Nursery	Children are provided with a wide range of different materials and mark making media in their play. With increasing independence, children explore a range of resources that encourage the use of a dominant hand and develop their strength and dexterity. Children can make random marks with their fingers and some tools, using a range of media including dough, sand, paint and mud. Using appropriate vocabulary, they are able to give meaning to their marks.	Children can find their name card and recognise some print in the environment. As their mark making develops, they make more small controlled movements and draw lines and circles. They can distinguish between these lines (e.g. line, circle, and zigzag). They begin to use anticlockwise movements and retrace vertical lines. Children are familiar with the language of directionality such as 'up', 'down', 'round and round'.	From their observations and imagination, children can create closed shapes with continuous lines and begin to use these shapes to represent objects. For example, they are able to represent a face with a circle and including details. Children can use drawing to represent movement and sound. Sometimes gives meaning to marks they make as they draw, write and paint. Mark makes in a variety of forms for different purposes e.g. shopping list, label. Gives meaning to marks they see in different places. As children use their name card frequently, they begin to recognise specific letters in their name. With adult support, they are shown how to use the tripod grip in a comfortable way to hold a pen or pencil and begin to form some recognisable letters. Write some letters accurately.
Reception	As children complete Phase 2 Phonics, they are able to translate their knowledge into writing by writing their own name and constructing simple labels for familiar objects within their classroom environment (e.g. pen, peg). They can select appropriate tools for a writing task and maintain their engagement and concentration for a set period of time. Gives meaning to marks they make as they draw, write and paint.	Their use of the tripod grip is becoming more secure. Form lower case and capital letters correctly. Children write their own name with a capital letter. Children begin to use adjectives within stories to describe objects, characters and settings. Use newly introduced vocabulary within play.	As children become more proficient with holding a pencil effectively, using the tripod grip in most instances in preparation for fluent writing. Articulate and carry out ideas for writing through independent and guided activities. Spell words by identifying sounds in them and representing the sounds with a letter or letters. Write short sentences that can be read by others, with words with known sound-letter correspondences using a capital letter and full stop. Writes short sentences in meaningful contexts. Children can use finger spaces.

Milestones	Can write a range of texts for different purposes and different audiences. The features of the chosen text type are used appropriately for the purpose and the identified audience. In narrative writing, effective settings, characters, atmosphere and plots are created. In narrative writing, dialogue is used to show character and to move events forward although there may be some over-use. In non-narrative writing, an appropriate style and vocabulary is used to maintain the reader's interest. Narrative techniques such as flashbacks and shifts in time are used to maintain the reader's interest. Appropriate choices are sometimes made between informal and formal language dependent on the purpose and audience of the text. The text has a recognisable viewpoint or voice which may not always be sustained throughout. Conclusions may attempt to relate subject to reader or make direct appeal to reader. However, endings may be the weakest element of the whole text. Paragraphs are used to organise ideas. Ideas are developed and elaborated on within paragraphs. Fronted adverbials are used to link ideas between paragraphs and sometimes within paragraphs.	Can write a range of effective texts for different purposes and different audiences. Text types are well-chosen and used appropriately for the purpose and the identified audience. In narrative writing, descriptions of settings, characters and atmosphere are used appropriately. Dialogue is used successfully to convey character and move events forward in combination with action and description. In non-narrative writing, an appropriate style and vocabulary is used dependent on the text type and is used successfully to entertain, inform or persuade. Appropriate choices are mostly made between informal and formal language dependent on the purpose and audience of the text. Viewpoint is well controlled and convincing. Texts have a clear voice which is sustained. Openings are varied and appropriate for the purpose of the text. They engage, and at times, may directly address the reader Closings are well thought out and conclude texts effectively. They may, for example, make direct comment on the content, pose a question or make a direct link to the introduction. The selected structure is carefully controlled throughout the text which maintains and emphasises its context and purpose. Paragraphs with clear topic sentences are used to guide the reader so that texts are well-shaped and follow a clear and coherent sequence.	Writing has clear voice which is evident across all texts. A range of writing for different purposes and audiences. The features and conventions of a text type may be used unconventionally or manipulated to create specific effects. Shifts in time are well-managed and add to the effectiveness and impact of the writing. Paragraphing is precise and used to structure texts. Paragraphs are used to develop and expand ideas or points of view, themes and events in depth. A varied range of cohesive devices is used across and within paragraphs. They may vary in length according to the writer's purpose. Sentences containing more than one clause are used to elaborate and to convey complicated information concisely. Precise vocabulary and grammatical choices including the deliberate use of the passive voice to affect the presentation of information in both formal and informal situations and the subjunctive mood as appropriate. Varied, precise, appropriate and often ambitious vocabulary is used. A range of literary features add to the impact of the text. For example, repetition, short sentences, figurative language. Shifts between levels of formality are well-managed through selecting vocabulary precisely and by manipulating grammatical structures.

Pronouns are also sometimes used to support cohesion in and between paragraphs. Dialogue, action and description are used appropriately. However, this may be unbalanced with over emphasis of one element. Appropriate organisational and presentational devices are used to structure text dependent on the purpose and audience. A variety of simple, compound and complex sentences is used and mostly controlled to create impact and effect. The use of complex sentences is mostly secure with some variation of the position of the clause, included embedding clauses. Attempts to construct more ambitious, multi-clause sentences may not always be controlled and result in lack of clarity. Range of verbs forms is used mostly accurately. This may include attempts, which are only successful sometimes, to use modality to position an argument and the passive voice to shift focus. Grammatical structures used do not always reflect the level of formality required for the purpose and audience of the text. Noun phrases are expanded by adjectives, prepositional phrases and adverbials to add detail to sentences. This detail may sometimes lack purpose and precision. Adverbials, including conjunctive adverbs are used as cohesive devices. These may be basic, repeated or used inappropriately at times. Vocabulary choices are often imaginative. Technical vocabulary is usually used appropriately. Some vocabulary choices may not reflect the level of formality required for the purpose and audience of the writing. Used mostly accurately: capital letters, full stops, question marks, exclamation marks, commas for	Paragraphs are developed and expand ideas, information, opinions, descriptions, themes and events in depth with relevant detail. A range of cohesive devices is used to link ideas within and across paragraphs. For example, repetition of words, phrases or sentences, adverbials, including conjunctive adverbs, generalisers and verb tenses or forms. Elements of dialogue, action and description are interwoven appropriately to support text structure, move events forward and maintain the reader's interest. Appropriate organisational and presentational devices are used to structure text dependent on the purpose and audience. Variety of simple, compound and complex sentences is used with control to indicate levels of informality and formality and to create particular effects. Positioning and manipulation of clauses in complex and multi-clause sentences is varied to shift emphasis or focus for effect and impact. Relative clauses, which draw on a range of relative pronouns and adverbs, are used to clarify information and to add detail Tense is chosen to support the cohesion of the text. Range of verbs forms are used accurately and to create more subtle meanings. Modal verbs and adverbs are used to position an argument as well as to indicate degrees of possibility, probability and certainty. Passive voice is used to affect the focus or presentation of information in a sentence. Subjunctive mood may be used in very formal contexts. Expanded noun phrases are used to be specific and add effective detail and description, as well as to convey complicated information with precision.	Verb forms are chosen for meaning and effect. The complete range of punctuation is used mostly correctly, including: semi-colons to mark the boundary between independent clauses, colons to mark the boundary between independent clauses. The use of the comma is secure. The drafting process is used efficiently and second drafts or edited work show carefully considered changes or amendments to enhance meaning, create impact or aid precision. Writing is evaluated as a matter of course. Proof reading ensures a high level of accuracy. Spelling is mainly accurate with only occasional errors in more ambitious vocabulary. Legible, fluent handwriting is mostly maintained with a personal style evident.
