This week in Nursery we have been learning that we are all unique because we all look different and we all like different things. We created self-portraits using a range of natural resources and enjoyed listening to the story 'What I like about me.'

For home learning this week, we would like the children to share their favourite book to continue on our theme of what makes us all different.

Over the weekend, could you be able to encourage your child reading their favourite book in their favourite place at home and to take a picture of them. Once you have taken the photo, could you be able to upload it onto evidence me so that we can print it out and display the pictures in our 'Story Snug' station.

Many thanks,
Mrs Lukman
